

SMALL TALK

Automobile Club News.

Many auto enthusiasts believe the time is ripe for an automobile club in Columbus.

Merry-making Monday.

There has been a general reduction in prices all along the line in general merchandise in Columbus.

Amie, Amie! Wonderful Amie!

Will be one of the attractions during the athletic sports on Monday. Everything from. Drawing people can daily invited.

Search Thief Disappears.

Everything was peaceful on the scene last night and the police of the night before didn't report, for which many people were thankful.

Baptist Church Social Postponed.

The social that had been planned to be held at the Baptist Church on July 2 has been postponed until July 8, owing to the illness of Mr. Page.

El Paso Times Late.

Monday's El Paso Times failed to arrive altogether and just as the clouds arrived first, just about 20 hours later—another argument "why the Daily Courier."

See the Gears Monday.

Along with the Deeds, another attraction for the celebration of the Fourth will be the gears. The gears, four in all, have its history in the desert. This specimen is a wonder.

Moonlight Party.

Last evening, with the moon overhead, a party of young people, accompanied by Miss Della Johnson, had a delightful time. Youthful waltzes tagged along and the women whatever that is, came with merry shouts of laughter.

Major French Invites.

Major French of the 24th Infantry extends a cordial invitation to the surrounding villages and cities to visit Columbus and Camp Furlong and witness the flag raising and firing of the salute. This will be at 11 noon Sunday, July 1.

Drug Business Increasing.

One of Lillybrook of the Columbus Drug Company thinks well of his business in Columbus with two drug stores. He expects for this time of year better than he expected. He gives credit, however, to his new line of retail supplies.

See the Deeds Monday.

Monday morning, early, shortly after 9 o'clock, the only Deeds in captivity in this part of the Southwest will be an exhibition at the corner of Main and Broadway. Columbus will celebrate the Fourth on Monday and the Deeds will be one of the sights of the celebration.

The Daily Courier has copy in the office for a page ad which will be running on an unassuming basis in the near future. Aside from the monetary consideration, it proves an enterprising firm has faith in the results which so large an ad will produce. This particular ad reveals the fact the firm is overstocked and bargains rare will be offered to the public.

Main Meeting Tonight.

This evening at 8:30 there will be a meeting at the Community House for the purpose of determining the status of the community clubs in this city. It is the intention, of course, to keep the Klubb Club open as at present. The question is how and by what methods the Community Club is to be maintained. Organized work in the city and the future of the club is at stake. It is up to the business men whether the equipment is to be removed to Camp Furlong or remain in the business section. The equipment consists of a pool table, a splendid start of a municipal library, some magnificent chairs, pictures. What do you think go to the Community House and vote on the proposition. It means dollars in the future.

Private First-Class Buft Fulp of the Camp Hospital has decided to take three more years in the service rather than go out and make a fortune in the stock market. He hasn't any stock at all on his head.

Private Foster, the blue-eyed son of the Camp Hospital, has a new sign on his collar which reads A. R. N. No one has been able to locate his commission.

Cook Jackson, one of the soldiers in the Army, has gained the name of a disaster area. He was observed yesterday with a bag of bananas and a quart of cream which he claims was for a sick lady.

It can't be learned whether Corporal Best of M. Company, 24th Infantry, or Private George Thomas of Headquarters company is the proprietor of the main lunch cafe, as they both can be found at this place from daylight until dark.

Private Joseph P. Russell of Camp Hospital will have to pay off from snapping pictures for a day or so as his camera has been borrowed by Miss Dorothy Wyatt. When the hotel is returned, Russell will receive one of Miss Wyatt's photos.

Private First-Class Lewis January was seen yesterday collecting his long boots and mule shoes. He is going to stage a performance somewhere, as he has a lovely voice. We mean a voice for calling boys.

Private First-Class Ernest Powell, U. S. C., has not been seen since he opened a shoe shining shop in the city. His business was so great the first day it rushed him to the ropes.

The chief dispatcher, Mr. Knight, was caught in Mr. May's hand and spent a whole shining shop in the city. His business was so great the first day it rushed him to the ropes.

Wonder what Sergeant Williams of the Camp Garage is going to do with the little machine he saw him with this morning.

"Gasoline"

By a Gamewing Rod.

A detail of one officer, three sergeants and six corporals went down to the 24th Infantry camp yesterday afternoon for the purpose of meeting the "sergeants" that were expected in to replace the large number of soldiers now being discharged, but said detail was never dispatched, for "he" didn't arrive until 11:45 p. m., on the Drummer's special. "He" was assigned to M. company.

Driver José Brasterio had a lot of hard luck Sunday trying to cross the waters toward at 10:00 a. m. after a hard rain. Poor José had to return out 26 hours without sleep, but he stuck to it. (The mud) could be moved by a ship of the desert (a Liberty truck).

There's a certain little fellow, very small fellow—only about 30 pounds Troy, at the Camp Garage, who has been complaining he was in need of repairs. He was put a pink card on him and marked him "Broke." The chief mechanic reported that his valves needed grinding, his engine was not correctly adjusted, his headlights on the lamp, spark plugs needed cleaning, connecting rod bushings loose, crankshaft in bad shape but he has been using a poor grade of lubricating oil (Camp company oil), and that a little 1800W Ford (maker) would fix him up in the transmission of course, his running gear is in excellent shape. "What do you want? No, don't ever disturb me again when you see me writing. I don't carry the book master around in my pocket.

Tearing car driver. "My bunk, what's the matter with my friend? He walks so fast!"

Truck driver. "I think he's got a very bad case of 'Blasie' term."

Foreman of one of the Camp Garages went to collect for a set of tools and disappeared in about 40 minutes. The foreman returned leading Corporal Herbert Tapp, saying, "There is that fellow Tapp, but I can't find anybody around here named Tapp. Quick, Allen, get a few extinguishers!"

First Sergeant Winfield Lamb in some shops. Got a new job at the Sewing Club. Well, look out, "Crutch" and longer and longer.

Mechanic George Dawson is going to be discharged on the first, and says he's going back to Hopkins, France, and "parlez Français." Well, good-bye, George, what are you going to say for? The Q. M. S.

A certain dispatcher named Briggs Jiggs had better watch his step, for I noticed the file clerk making a mistake at a little brown yesterday.

Smaller now, Wesley? Are you paler because we had two lady callers yesterday?

One of the sad ladies inquired: "Mr. Sergeant, could I use your telephone?"

"Sure," said the "son of a gun," who immediately returned the call to the lady. File Clerk, who in turn gratified the wish of the little lady who launched the inquiry by getting a company of the largest camp on the line, but this is all she could hear. Just gives the rest for yourselves.

"Hello, HELLO, HELLO! Is this a company? Well, I want to see Charlie. Oh, you know what I mean, I want to see him. You don't know Charlie? Well, you must not belong to the 24th Infantry if you don't know Charlie, for Charlie is in a company. Well, I mean Private Charlie. Oh, think you! And after a wait of about five minutes: Hello, HELLO! Is this your Charlie? Well, you know who this is? You don't? Ha, ha! Well, this is ME. Yes, ME. Don't you know ME? Why, Charlie, little fellow! Well, good morning, how are you and Murphy's Western Union minute penicillin has just registered 1:30 p. m. Well, Charlie, are you coming to town tonight? You are? Yes, yes, yes, yes, yes. What for? You hit a kitchen pot? Why, you ought to have known before that he jump on that policeman! (This is the little lady's first time around the war). I am coming right out there, right this minute to see you. Bye-bye. He went.

Then we heard a noise like a farmer trying to urge a lazy mule to do more than two miles per hour after they had departed. We found the receiver on the book upside down. Well, that ended it all for us until dispatcher Knight came in and tried to borrow 22 cents as he could go to both the Columbus and New York Exchange and Double Diers in the photographs.

Rann-dom Reels

THE COLD SORE

THE cold sore is a small, pain, growth on the human lip which is more painful to a sensitive, shrinking nature than anything else. It is one of nature's efforts to humble pride, and is sometimes so offensive that the victim will not appear at the next picture show for a week.

All medical authorities agree that the cause of the cold sore is harder to locate than the relative of the average woman to the text. Some medical authorities declare it is caused by the same virus which brings on the hot-breathed hay fever, while others say that it is due to eating the self-righting parasite. This latter theory seems to be disproven by the fact that thousands of people eat hay fever after layer of pus every morning in the rear without incurring a solitary headache, while others who live an ascetic life on animal crackers and last night's milk are afflicted with a cold sore which resembles a blushing young child.

The cold sore chooses its own time for showing. It is very particular to put in an appearance the day before some religious social event, and when worn with a definite grin and pink carnations makes a captivating color scheme. Every once in a while we read in the newspapers of some high society wedding having to be postponed on account of the groom's absence, but in nearly all of these cases it will be found that the bride-elect has come down with a terrible cold sore which cannot be hidden behind a tulle veil with any degree of success. It requires great fortitude and will power for an unscrupulous groom to stand up at the altar and run his back through the yoke, under such circumstances, but it has been done.

There is no known cure for the cold sore except patience and hope. Some victims carry a complete bottle and apply the contents to a steadily manner, while others go forth defiantly into the world, carrying a banner of black cross-grained. When a cold sore settles on the upper lip of man, he can always announce it by growing a thick, branching, scabbed, but a woman is obliged to suffer in silence.

The cold sore is probably given to us that we will not become too proud of our looks. The man who can show pride with a buttoned coat and on his lower lip has reached the point where any further infection would result in a blow-out.

Pioneers

By HOWARD MATTHEW ADAMS

WHAT you saw and what you have seen are largely in the blood-sucking effects of Pioneers. Every notable name in history, since Time started, represents pioneering of some sort. Not all were Pioneers, but all were Starters. If you want to be a Pioneer—

Start Something.

Well, was a Pioneer in revealing the power of steam. He got his first idea from his mother's stove kettle! His Isaac Newton evolved the idea of Gravitation from throwing an Apple into the air. Today he is recognized as one of the world's greatest Pioneers in the field of Science. Thus it has always been. By Thinking, even YOU may—

Start Something.

Woolworth, the Pioneer in Five and Ten cent stores, started his idea from a conversation to a small New York money store where he was at the time a Clerk. The idea was free to everyone—but Woolworth had the Nerve and Initiative to—

Start Something.

Remember this: If an idea comes to you that you consider valuable and you don't work it out, some one somewhere at some time is almost sure to do so—and receive the Glory for it! So, day by day, keep the Pioneering tactics alive. Be known as one not afraid to—

Start Something.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

SINCE JESSIE DIED.

We understand a lot of things we never did before. And it seems that to each other we are becoming more. I don't know how to say it, but since little Jessie died we have learned that to be happy we must travel side by side. You can share your joys and pains, even, but you never come to know.

Just the real depth of loving till you've got a common we.

We've got the heart of fretting—we can talk about it now. She slipped away so gently and the never left her home.

To say that we didn't know we lost her, but instead we thought her only sleeping as we watched inside her bed.

Then the doctor, I remember, raised his head, as if to say: What his eyes had told already, and he faded down away.

Up to then I thought that money was the thing I ought to get. And I fancied, once I had it, I should never have a fret.

But I saw that I had wasted precious hours in making wealth. I had made a tiny fortune, but I couldn't buy her health.

And I saw that truth much clearer than I'd ever seen before. That the rich man and the poor man have to let death through the door.

We're not half so keen for money as we once were used to be. I am thinking more of mother and she's thinking more of me. Now we spend some time together and I know we're missing each other when we're apart.

It was hard to understand it all. Oh, the dreamy nights we've cried! But we've found the depth of loving since the day that Jessie died. (Copyright by Edgar A. Guest.)
